MAKING THE MOST OF YOUR REPORT

INTRODUCTION

We are delighted to provide you with your personal enVision.360® Feedback Report. This report is designed to provide you with information about your current behavior on the job, so that you can identify strengths and expand your repertoire of effective behaviors. The perspective it can offer on how colleagues view you and how your behavior impacts them can have a significant impact on your self-awareness – which is critical to behavior change¹ and highly correlated with leadership success².

Recently, you completed a “Self” questionnaire and asked a variety of others to provide feedback on your exhibition of a number of items. The diagram below shows the areas targeted by enVision.360®. Note that they fall in two categories: competencies and “derailers.”

Competencies:

The competency categories are shown in the outside band of the model. For this version of the instrument (the Executive version), the focus was on “Personal,” “Interpersonal,” “Business,” and “Leadership” competencies. (“Functional” and “Technical” competencies are used in other versions of this tool.) The specific competencies and their items in each of these categories will be outlined within the report.

For the competencies, raters were asked to make two determinations:

- a. How important each competency is to the successful performance of your particular role (to assist you in prioritizing your feedback).
- b. The extent to which you display each behavior that is associated with each competency.

The rating scales used will be shown inside the report.

MAKING THE MOST OF YOUR REPORT

Derailers:

enVision.360® not only examines positive skills and behaviors that are critical to success in role; the instrument also assesses behaviors that, unchecked, could lead to performance issues. These “derailers” are shown in the center of the diagram on the previous page, and are character-based. The items in this instrument were crafted by enVision.360®’s designers, based upon the writings of Tim Irwin, Ph.D. [See his book Derailed: Five Lessons Learned from Catastrophic Failures of Leadership for more information about these derailers and their importance to performance. (2009. Nashville, TN: Thomas Nelson).]

Please note that these items are what are termed “reverse-scored” items. Here (unlike in the “competency” section that you just examined), lower scores are more desirable.

Raters were asked to evaluate the derailers on two dimensions:

- a. The extent to which they agree that the statement is characteristic of your behaviors.
- b. The extent to which your exhibition of the behavior has the potential to affect your overall job performance.

Rating scales used will be shown in the appropriate report section.

WHAT THIS REPORT PROVIDES

The purpose of this report is to provide you with specific, structured feedback that is based on others’ perceptions of your behavior, and to offer you a benchmark for comparing your own perceptions of the same behaviors. By comparing your perceptions against those of others, you should have a clearer starting point for personal improvement and developmental Action Plans. You will also be able to identify those key skills to leverage as strengths, as well as those on which to focus for further development.

LOOK AT THE DETAIL

It is important to take notice of the individual ratings that build up the averages. A strong “positive” rating by one person may be cancelled out by a strong “negative” rating from someone else. The implications, of course, are quite different than if both people gave the same mid-range rating.

Instances of wide variations in different people’s ratings are highlighted by the symbol ▶. Additional insights may also be gained from paying attention to where there are agreements or differences between your own ratings and those given by others.

You will gain more from discussing the ratings with others than from trying to interpret the ratings in isolation. Suggestions on doing this will be made by your facilitator.

MAKING THE MOST OF YOUR REPORT

INITIAL HANDLING OF THE FEEDBACK

Your feedback may contain confirmation of the best aspects of your performance, but may also contain data which you find harder to accept. An initial reaction to difficult feedback may be to explain it away by reasoning or by making excuses. The challenge, however, is to find ways of identifying why the particular feedback has been given, what caused this perception to be created, and what you can do to improve things. In other words, find ways to understand and act on the feedback, rather than reasons why it may be invalid.

Please plan to share your learnings with your coach/supervisor. Additionally, plan to prepare a written development plan to guide your growth and development. We suggest doing both quickly, while the motivation is strong and the data are top-of-mind for you.

We wish you much success in your developmental journey.

HOW MANY RATERS RESPONDED?

This table below shows you how many people from each rater group responded.

“Nominated” refers to those from whom you sought feedback.

“Completed” refers to those who provided the requested feedback.

Your raters’ anonymity is protected. This is achieved in part by never presenting feedback data from any rater group other than the recipient’s Leader/Manager unless three or more questionnaires were received from that rater group. Consequently, in the event that less than three Peers/Colleagues, Direct Reports or Others submitted feedback for you, you may see responses in a source category of “Merged” in the table below. This indicates that questionnaires from two or more rater groups have been combined (a) to protect anonymity and (b) to ensure that you can still receive the most feedback possible.

	Completed	Nominated
Self.....	1	1
Ldr/Mgr.....	1	1
Peers/Coll.....	3	3
Direct Report.....	3	3
Others.....	0	0
Merged.....	0	0
Total.....	8	8

COMPETENCY REPORT

RELATIVE STRENGTHS

This section lists behaviors rated as relatively high* in terms of performance. The check marks (✓) indicate whether you and/or your rater groups rated the behavior as a relative strength. The text of some behaviors may have been truncated to maximize the information that can appear on the page.

STRENGTHS

Behaviors	Self				Competency
		Ldr/Mgr	Peers/Coll	Direct Report
32. Ensures that effective systems and processes are in place to service customers	✓		✓		Focuses on Customers
65. Is entrepreneurial; seizes opportunities to improve and innovate	✓		✓		Fosters Innovation
10. Is decisive; makes quality, timely decisions when required, even with limited				✓	Makes Sound and Courageous Decisions
6. Is accountable -- does not avoid issues or evade responsibility				✓	Earns Trust and Confidence
28. Ensures that effective systems and processes are in place to foster collaboration				✓	Collaborates Productively
68. Is committed to the success and growth of the organization's employees			✓		Cultivates a Learning and Developmental Climate
3. Handles confidential information with discretion	✓				Earns Trust and Confidence
11. Makes difficult decisions that are in the best interests of the organization	✓				Makes Sound and Courageous Decisions
17. Communicates openly and honestly; is as candid as possible without revealing	✓				Communicates Openly
19. Inspires enthusiasm; gets people motivated	✓				Communicates Openly

*Note: A behavior is considered relatively high if the source rates it higher than the average of all the behaviors. Let's say that the rating source, across all items, provided an average rating of 4.0. Then any items that are rated substantially higher than 4.0 would be candidates for appearing in that rating source's column on this page. The 10 items shown here were – across all rater groups – the highest-rated items for your report.

Please note that there must be a significant difference between the overall average rating provided by each source and an item's rating for a check to appear in the column above. If, for example, your leader/manager provided all 4's as your item ratings, no checks would appear above, as there is no difference between the item ratings and the overall average.

RELATIVE DEVELOPMENT NEEDS

This section identifies behaviors which the report suggests may be areas of development for you. They are relatively lower* among your scores, and therefore may be productive areas of focus for you. The cross marks (x) indicate whether you and/or your rater groups rated the behavior as a relative development need. The text of some behaviors may have been truncated to maximize the information that can appear on the page.

DEVELOPMENT NEEDS

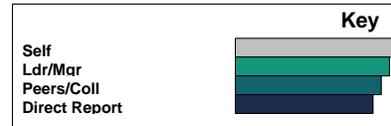

Behaviors	Self				Competency
		Ldr/Mgr	Peers/Coll	Direct Report
21. Treats others with dignity and respect, regardless of background or position			x	x	Collaborates Productively
46. Puts the needs of the organization before his/her own personal desires			x	x	Exhibits Financial Acumen
13. Attentive; genuinely listens to others	x		x		Communicates Openly
50. Makes things happen in the organization as a whole; does not limit influence to own area	x		x		Displays Organizational Savvy
58. Brings the future alive; communicates the organization's mission, vision,		x			Creates Focus and Direction
64. Creates an environment where people want to share ideas		x			Fosters Innovation
69. Moves quickly to address employee performance issues		x			Cultivates a Learning and Developmental Climate
71. Supports appropriate professional development for the organization's employees		x			Cultivates a Learning and Developmental Climate
73. Adapts his/her leadership style to the needs of both the people and the situation		x			Engages and Motivates Others
74. Acknowledges the contributions and efforts of others		x			Engages and Motivates Others

*Note: A behavior is considered relatively low if the source rates it lower than the average of all the behaviors. Let's say that the rating source, across all items, provided an average rating of 4.0. Then any items that are rated substantially lower than 4.0 would be candidates for appearing in that rating source's column on this page. The 10 items shown here were – across all rater groups – the lowest-rated items for your report.

Please note that there must be a significant difference between the overall average rating provided by each source and an item's rating for an "X" to appear in the column above. If, for example, your leader/manager provided all 4's as your item ratings, no "X's" would appear above, as there is no difference between the item ratings and the overall average.

COMPETENCY IMPORTANCE RATINGS

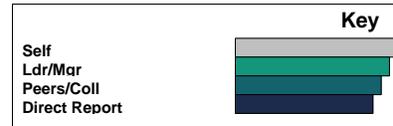

In this section the average importance ratings given by you and your feedback providers for each Competency are shown. This shows, by rater group, the raters' assessment of the extent to which exhibition of each competency is important to effective performance of your job.

MAP OF COMPETENCIES (Importance vs. Performance)

The scattergrams presented in this section represent the average ratings by your feedback providers for each of the behaviors. Please note that there is one scattergram for each of your rater groups. The cross (made up of the horizontal and vertical bars) is individually positioned according to your feedback provider average ratings. The vertical bar represents the average of all performance ratings, and the horizontal bar the average of all importance ratings given by feedback providers. Behaviors which show as areas for further exploration (i.e. those with High Importance and Low Performance ratings) appear in the top left quadrant. It is important also to note the behaviors in the top right quadrant. These were rated High Importance and High Performance and should be regarded as potential strengths.

Rating Scales:

Performance

- 1 - Strongly disagree (SD)
- 2 - Disagree
- 3 - Tend to disagree
- 4 - Tend to agree
- 5 - Agree
- 6 - Strongly agree (SA)
- N - Not rated

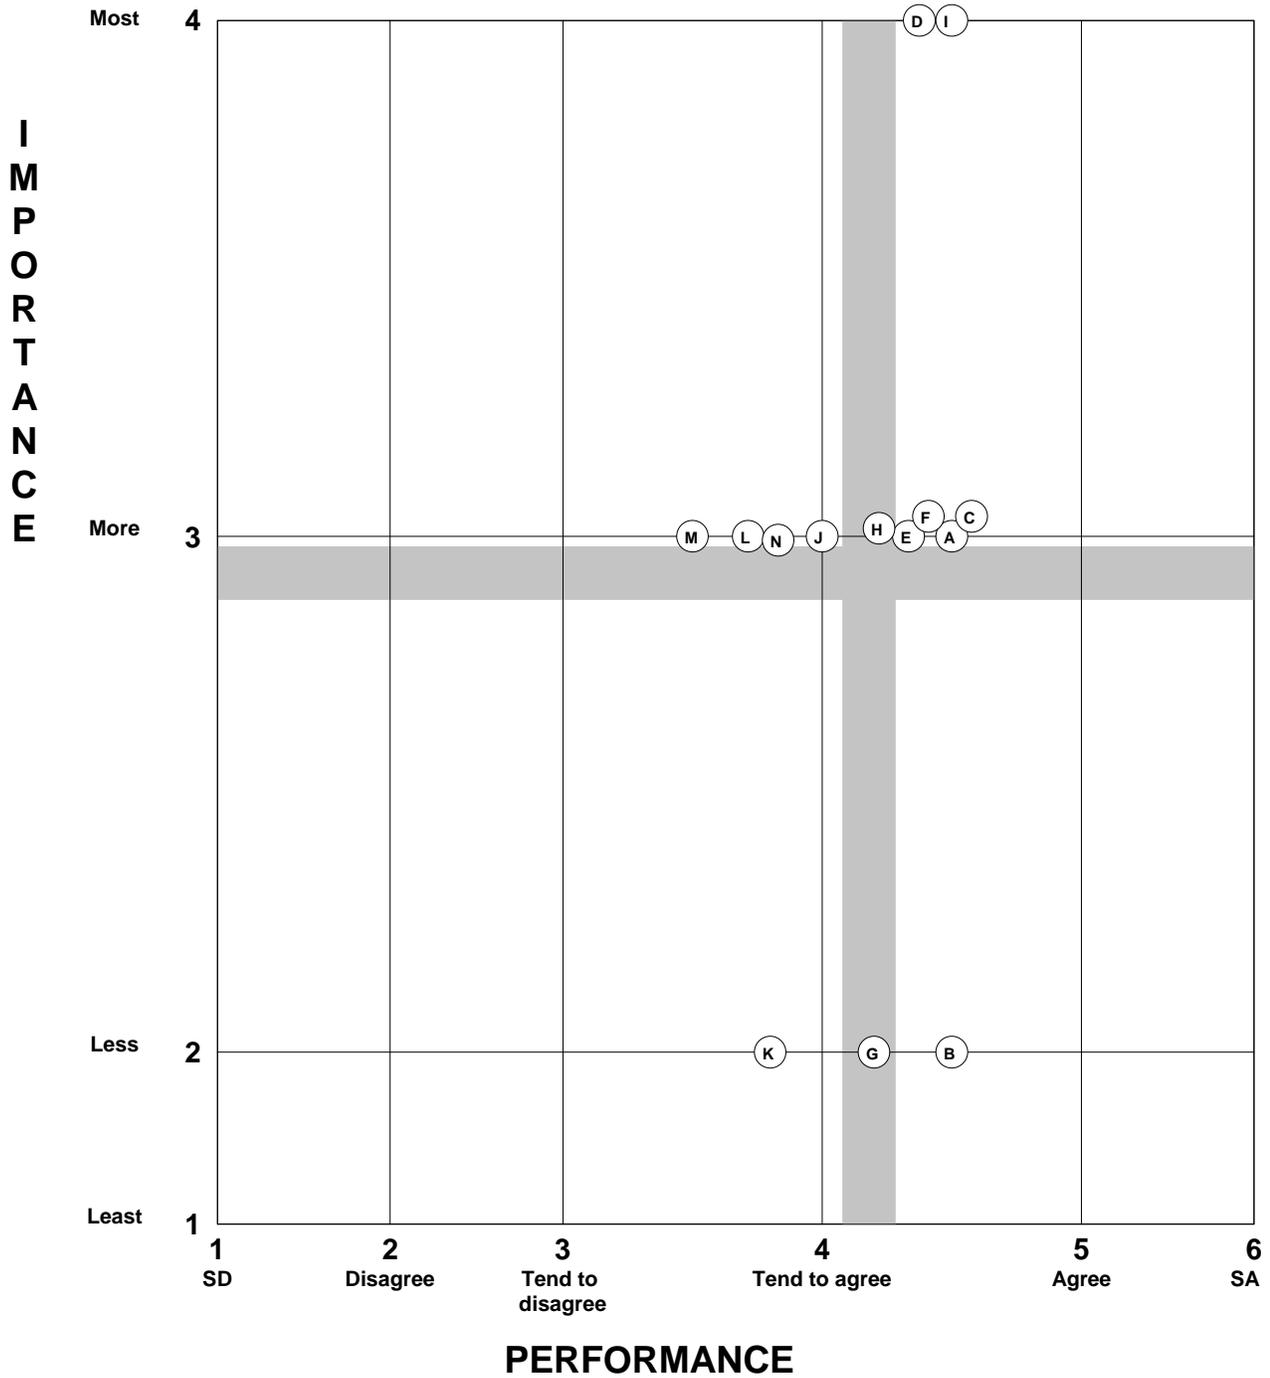

Importance

- 1 - Least (least important for effective job performance)
- 2 - Less (less important for effective job performance)
- 3 - More (more important for effective for job performance)
- 4 - Most (most important for effective job performance)
- N - Not rated

Competency Key:

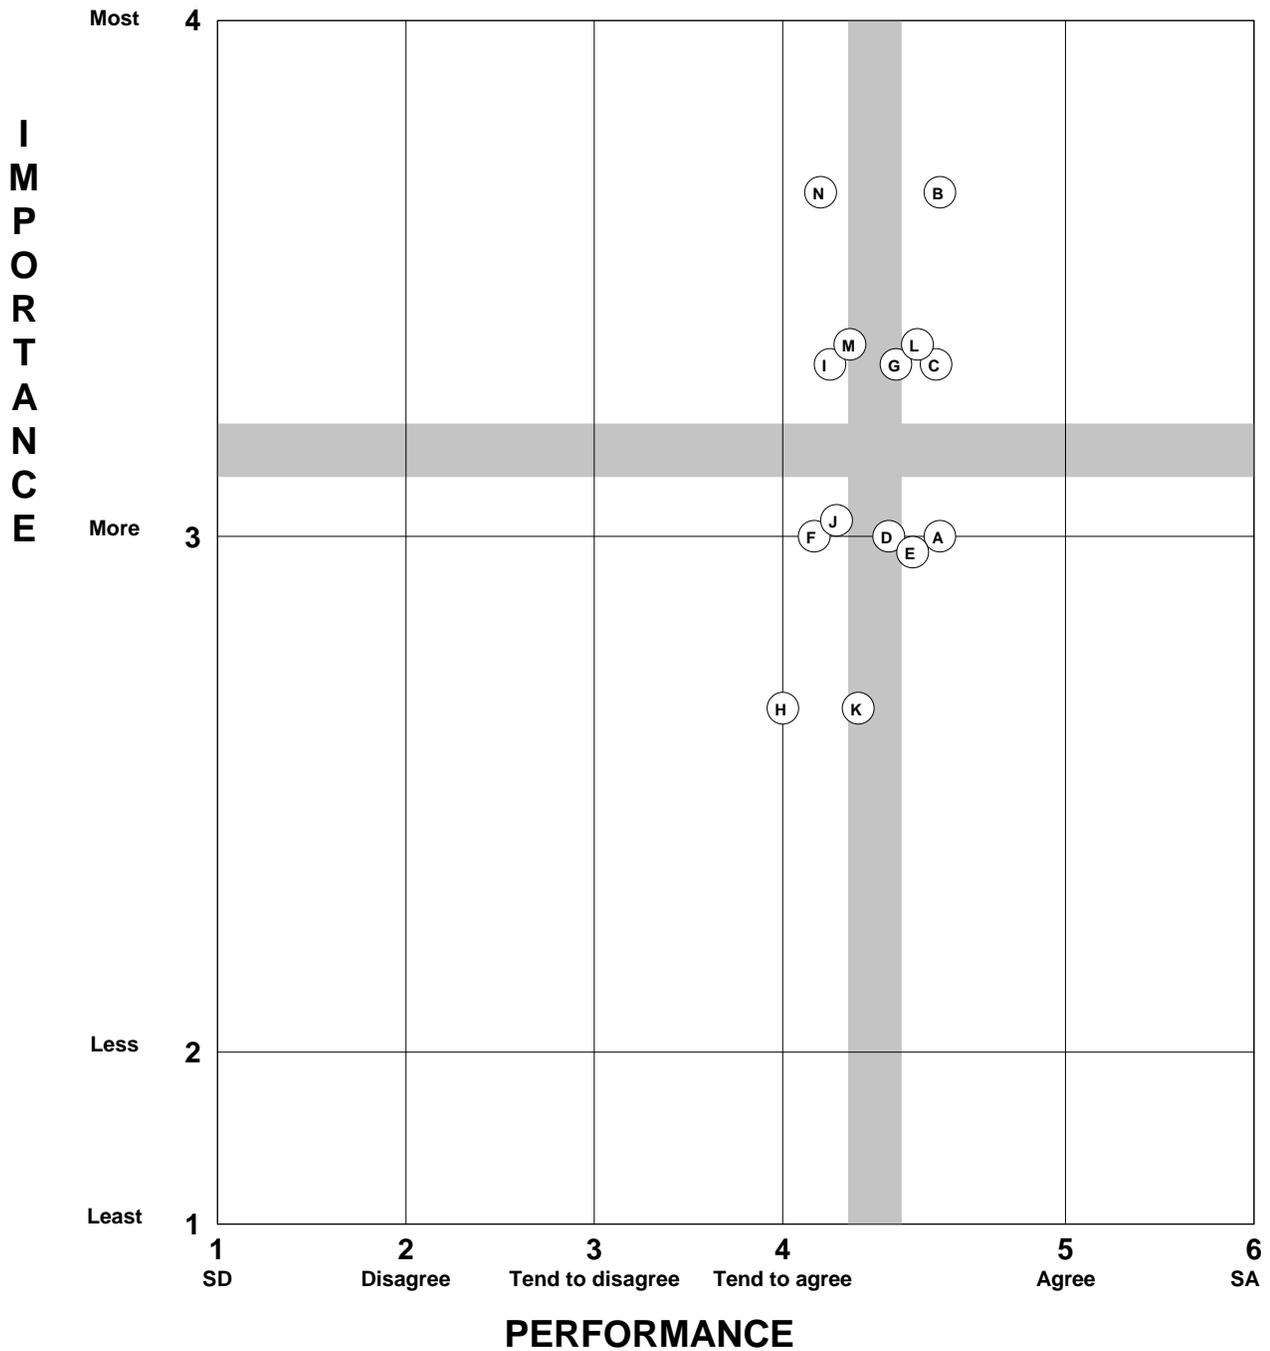

- A - Earns Trust and Confidence
- B - Makes Sound and Courageous Decisions
- C - Communicates Openly
- D - Collaborates Productively
- E - Focuses on Customers
- F - Delivers Excellence
- G - Understands the Business
- H - Exhibits Financial Acumen
- I - Displays Organizational Savvy
- J - Creates Focus and Direction
- K - Fosters Innovation
- L - Cultivates a Learning and Developmental Climate
- M - Engages and Motivates Others
- N - Leads Change

BEHAVIOR RANKINGS

In this section the average ratings given by you and all your “Non-self” feedback providers for each behavior are shown, along with a count of the number of ratings and an indication of the level of agreement among the feedback providers (0.5 or above indicates “good” agreement and above 0.75 indicates “excellent” agreement). The behaviors are sequenced in descending order based on the average “Non-self” rating.

Note: “S” stands for “Self”. “N” stands for the group or “Non-self.” This is all feedback providers other than self.

Rating	Count	Agreement	Behavior
				1	2	3	4	5	6
S:5.0 N:3.4	1 7	0.73	41. Displays a good understanding of the organization's business and the industry in which we operate
S:5.0 N:3.4	1 7	0.73	47. Financially aware; makes decisions and takes actions that clearly consider financial implications
S:5.0 N:3.4	1 7	0.69	49. Balances short- and long-term priorities in financial decision-making; does not jeopardize long-term goals by short-term expedient actions
S:5.0 N:3.4	1 7	0.73	64. Creates an environment where people want to share ideas
S:5.0 N:3.4	1 7	0.73	73. Adapts his/her leadership style to the needs of both the people and the situation
S:5.0 N:3.4	1 7	0.73	74. Acknowledges the contributions and efforts of others
S:5.0 N:3.3	1 7	0.74	21. Treats others with dignity and respect, regardless of background or position
S:5.0 N:3.3	1 7	0.74	46. Puts the needs of the organization before his/her own personal desires

GAPS IN PERCEPTION

Each table below highlights differences between your self-ratings and those given by each rater group. The bars at the top of each column represent the percentage of items on which your own ratings differed significantly from those provided by your raters. The longer the bars, the greater the gap in perception between you and your raters. The right-hand column in each table shows the percentage of items which you rated significantly higher than did the raters in each respective rater group, and represent possible “blind spots” for you. The left-hand column in each table shows the percentage of items which you rated significantly lower than did each rater group, and represent possible “hidden strengths.” Up to five items may be shown in each column – and these are the items on which there was the greatest difference in perception for each rater group. Note that only items with a rating difference of greater than 1.0 will be shown.

DERAILER REPORT

DERAILER REPORT

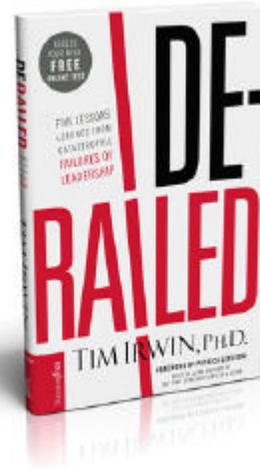

This section graphically shows the ratings provided by each rater group for the “derailers.”

As explained in the introduction to the report, the derailers measured by enVision.360® are character-based behaviors that, unchecked, have the potential to lead to performance issues. [See the book Derailed: Five Lessons Learned from Catastrophic Failures of Leadership for more information about these derailers and their importance to performance. (Irwin, T. 2009. Nashville, TN: Thomas Nelson.)]

Please note that these items are what are termed “reverse-scored” items. Here (unlike in the “competency” section that you just examined), lower scores are more desirable.

Raters were asked to evaluate the derailers on two dimensions:

- a. The extent to which they agree that the statement is characteristic of your behaviors. The rating scale used for this question was:
 - 1 – Strongly disagree
 - 2 – Disagree
 - 3 – Tend to disagree
 - 4 – Tend to agree
 - 5 – Agree
 - 6 – Strongly agree
 - N – Not rated
- b. The extent to which your exhibition of the behavior has the potential to affect your overall job performance. The rating scale used for this question was:
 - 1 – Not at all
 - 2 – To a little extent
 - 3 – To a moderate extent
 - 4 – To a great extent
 - N – Not rated

The scattergrams presented represent the average ratings by your feedback raters for each of the behaviors. Here, too, each rater group is shown in its own scattergram. Because of the reverse scoring of the items, in these scattergrams the areas for further exploration show up in the upper right quadrant (highly characteristic of you, and with a high potential to affect overall job performance). Areas of least concern as far as potential derailment issues are shown in the lower left quadrant (less characteristic of you, and low potential to affect overall job performance).

Results will be presented graphically in this section; detailed ratings may be found in the appendix.

DERAILER REPORT

The derail items shown on each scattergram are as follow:

Lack of Authenticity

- 84. Does not accept feedback graciously; is defensive
- 85. Does not admit when s/he has made a mistake
- 86. Is not able to laugh at him/herself
- 87. Operates with hidden agendas; is not straightforward about his/her true intentions or motivations
- 88. Would lie
- 89. Says one thing and does another

Lack of Self-Management

- 90. Does not control his/her emotions (i.e., anger, frustration) effectively under stress
- 91. Does not remain focused and productive under pressure
- 92. Becomes pessimistic in the face of obstacles or setbacks
- 93. Becomes frustrated with interruptions or disappointments
- 94. Becomes paralyzed under uncertain or ambiguous situations
- 95. Makes decisions impulsively; fails to gather sufficient information or input

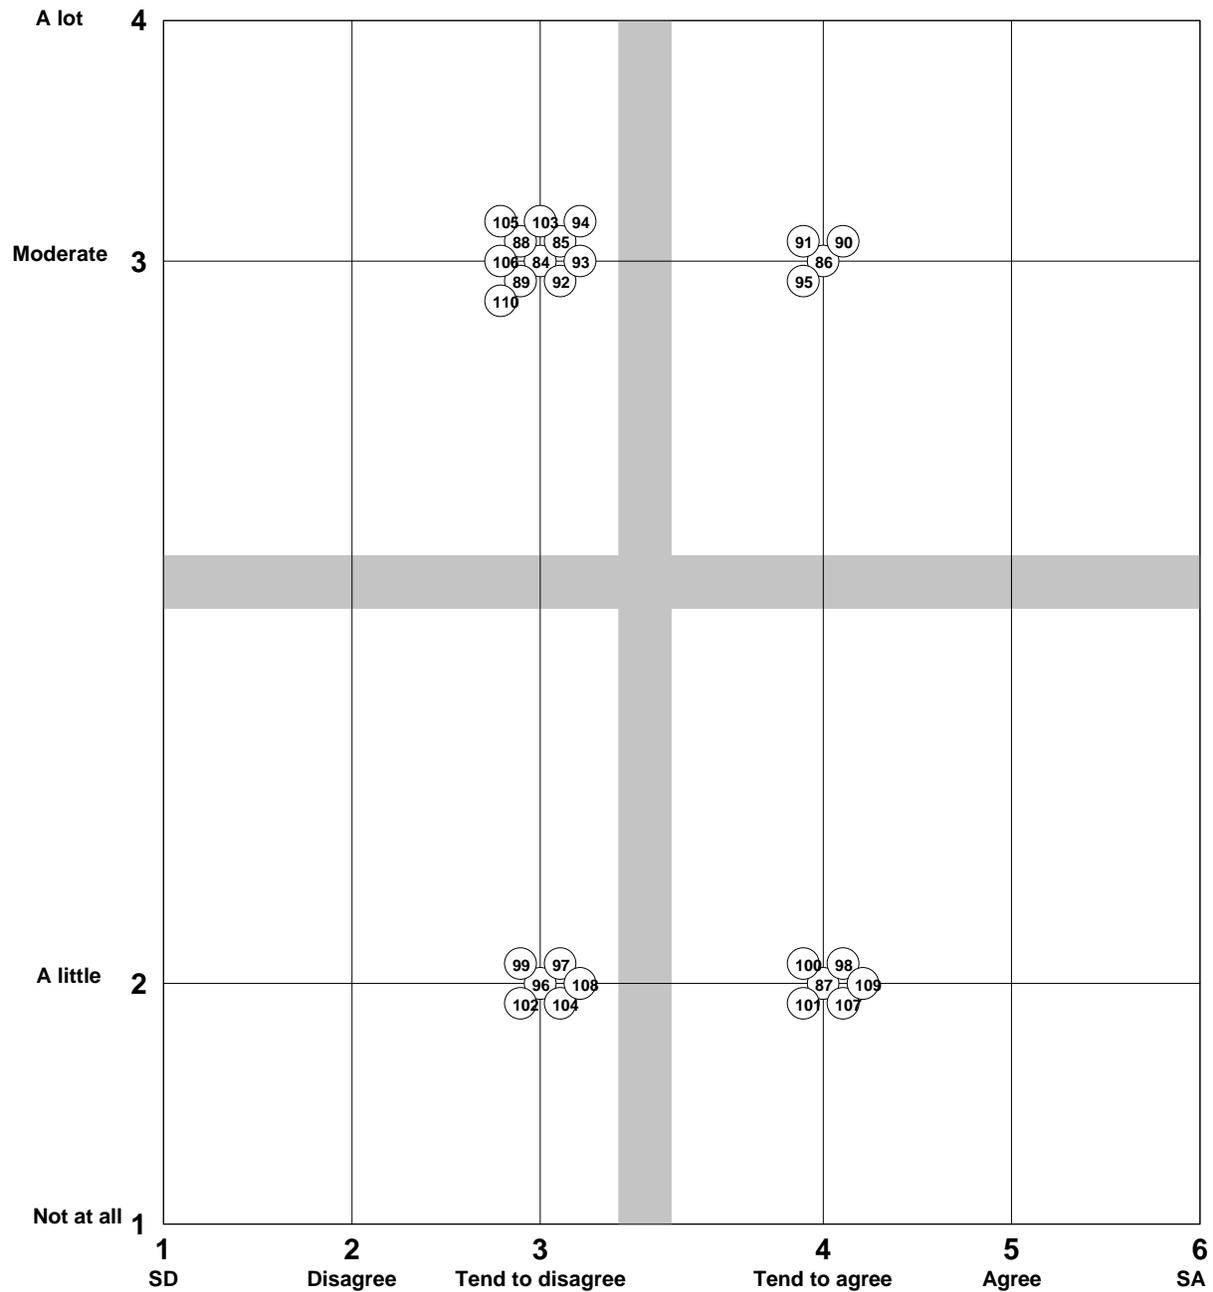

Lack of Humility

- 96. Has to be right
- 97. Is overly demanding
- 98. Is patronizing or condescending
- 99. Doesn't listen
- 100. Is disrespectful to others
- 101. Self-centered; is only interested in what's in it for him/her
- 102. Has to have the last word
- 103. Takes credit for the ideas or contributions of others

Lack of Courage

- 104. Avoids necessary confrontation or conflict
- 105. Avoids taking reasonable risks to achieve goals
- 106. Would not speak up if s/he saw an ethical violation
- 107. Does not allow people the freedom to make meaningful decisions
- 108. Would not speak up if s/he disagreed with the boss
- 109. Needs approval from others in order to move ahead – even on relatively minor issues
- 110. Micromanages

MAP OF DERAILERS BY MANAGER(S)

*The vertical scale (1 - 4) presents the potential for the derailer to affect your job performance. The scale used is:

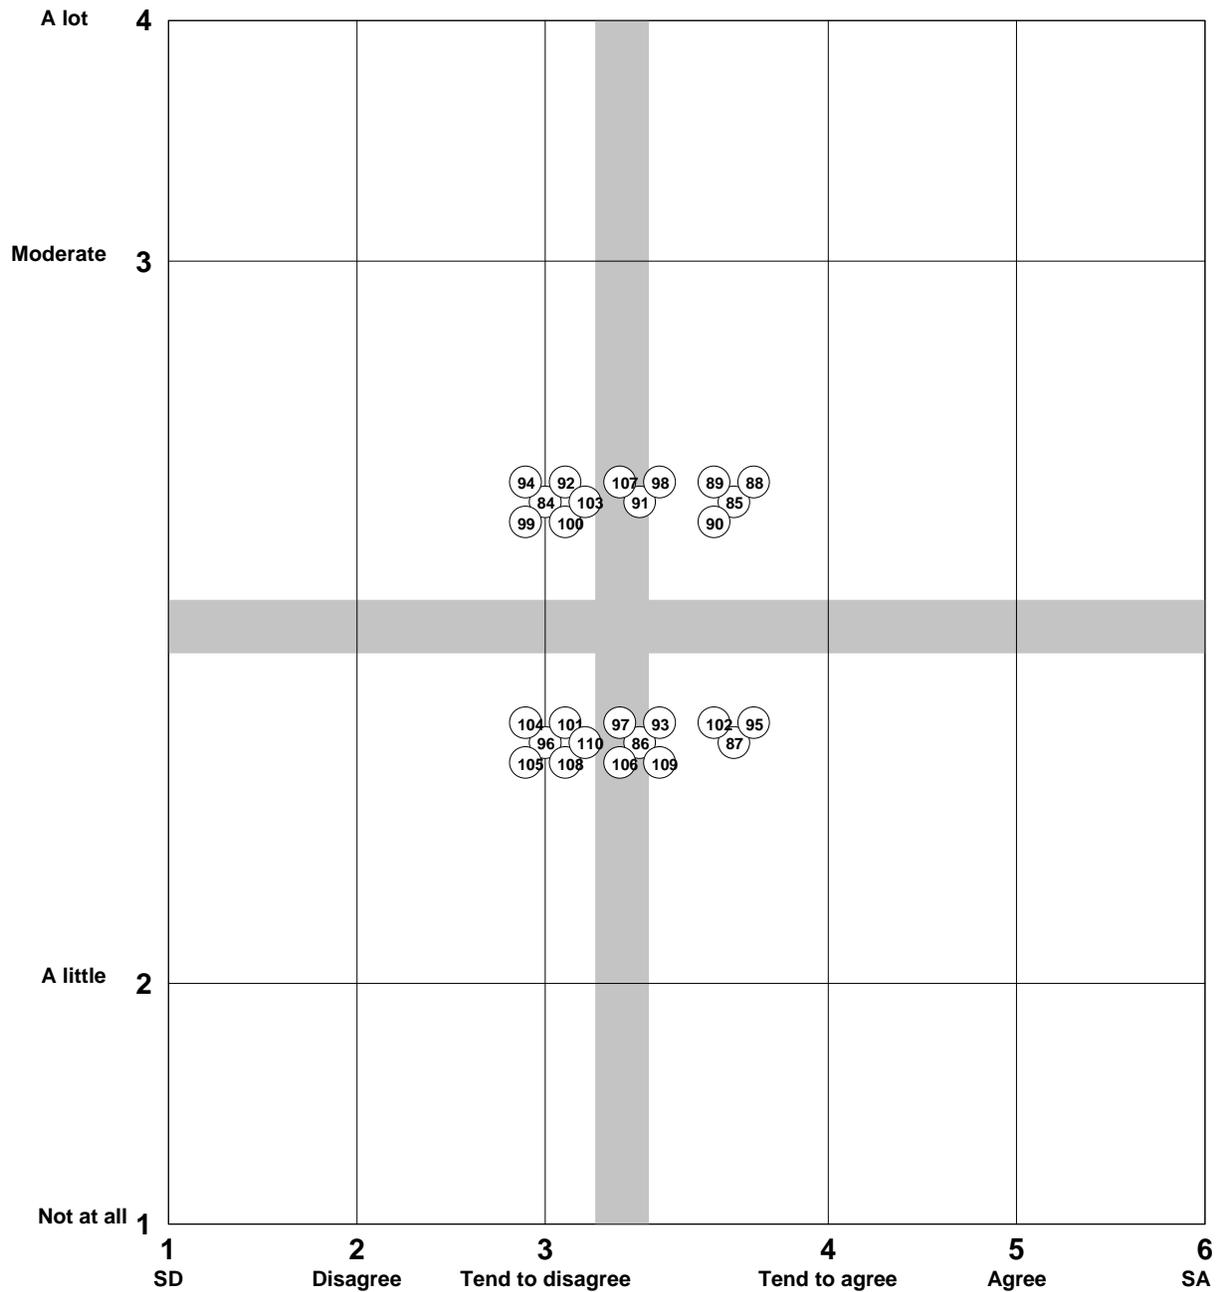

(1 – Not at all; 2 – To a little extent; 3 – To a moderate extent; 4 – To a great extent)

*The horizontal scale (1 - 6) presents the perceptions of how characteristic the derailer is of your day-to-day behavior. The scale used here is:

(1 – Strongly disagree; 2 – Disagree; 3 – Tend to disagree; 4 – Tend to agree; 5 – Agree; 6 – Strongly agree)

Items in the upper right quadrant represent potential development needs. Areas of least concern as potential derailment issues are shown in the lower left quadrant.

COMMENTS

COMMENTS

Working with comments

On the following page(s) you will find a transcription of any additional input (narrative comments) added by feedback providers. It is important, therefore, that you set the comments in the right context, for example:

1. Do not overreact to any one comment (positive or negative).

The comment may have been triggered by a specific situation or incident.

Ask yourself, "Why might someone have said that about me? What do I do?"

2. Don't read too much into what is written.

The author may have used short, punchy, even abrupt, wording in her/his haste to finish the questionnaire.

Ask yourself, "How else might someone have meant me to interpret this comment?"

3. Look for patterns – while the actual words used by people may be different, are there any apparent underlying themes?

Ask yourself "What is the key message people appear to be giving me?"

4. Do the comments match the ratings? Look to see if the comments help to explain the ratings. If not, have you understood correctly what has been written?

Ask yourself, "Why would people who have rated me this way, have written these comments?"

5. Use the comments to find ideas for improvement.

What suggestions do they include that you could take action on?

6. Don't reject ideas out of hand.

Even if you don't like or agree with a suggestion, still ask yourself "How could I make use of this idea, possibly in a different form?"

COMMENTS

Your colleagues were asked to provide comments about your performance and to support their ratings. These comments appear as they were given. Each comment is marked to indicate the rater group which provided it, using the following key:

- (M) Ldr/Mgr
- (P) Peers/Coll
- (R) Direct Report
- (O) Others
- (X) "Merged" (if sources have been merged to protect data)
- (S) Self (if applicable)

NOW WHAT?

DEVELOPMENT PLANNING

NEXT STEPS

Now that you have examined your enVision.360[®] feedback report, you can move towards the real payoff: actually maximizing your strengths and tackling your development needs.

FIRST IMPRESSIONS

Clearly you will want to review your report in detail and let it all sink in, but what are your first impressions now that you have seen your report?

What, if anything, were you surprised by?

What emerged as your strengths?

What about your improvement areas?

DEVELOPMENT PLANNING

ISSUES TO EXPLORE WITH YOUR COLLEAGUES

There might be issues that you would like to explore further with your colleagues. Use this page to identify what they are.

Issues to discuss with your Manager:

Issues to discuss with your Direct Reports:

Issues to discuss with Peers/Colleagues:

Issues to discuss with Others:

How will you obtain their input?

DEVELOPMENT PLANNING

DEVELOPMENT PLAN

Once you have reviewed your report in detail and obtained the clarification that you need from others on particular issues, you are ready to prioritize what you want to work on.

STRENGTHS

Your strengths are particularly important in identifying development strategies and often get overlooked. By leveraging your strengths, e.g., coaching others, continuing to develop your expertise etc., you can increase your career growth potential as well as your value to your organization.

Strengths are likely to be among those items that were rated high by feedback providers, as well as behaviors in the “continue section” of the “Comments.” To identify critical strengths, consider the following questions:

- What additional feedback have you received in these areas, e.g., through performance reviews, comments from clients, previous 360 data, etc.?
- What strengths are the most feasible to apply in your current job and most likely to be supported by your manager?
- What strengths do you find particularly satisfying? (These are the ones in which you are likely to invest the most energy.)

Note your priority strengths here: (typically no more than 1 or 2)

DEVELOPMENT PLANNING

DEVELOPMENT PLAN

Once you have reviewed your report in detail and obtained the clarification that you need from others on particular issues, you are ready to prioritize what you want to work on.

IMPROVEMENT AREAS

While an improvement area may be broader than a specific item, it will be useful to identify those items that were rated lower than others, as well as behaviors in the “start” and “stop” sections of the “Comments” section. Although your 360 assessments by others are key criteria in determining your development needs, you should weigh other factors as well. Consider the following questions before making your final list:

- How did you rate yourself?
- What additional feedback have you received about your development priorities, e.g., through performance reviews, comments from clients, previous 360 data, etc.?
- Which areas will have the greatest impact on your effectiveness?
- What areas are the most feasible to develop? (How realistic will it be for you to implement a strategy to develop this area and make progress in it?)
- What development priorities will receive the greatest support from your manager and the organization? (If in doubt, consult your manager for advice, since a supportive environment plays an important role in development planning.)

Note your priority improvement areas here: (typically no more than 1 or 2)
